SOLDIERS TAKE TO COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Game Has Been Introduced in Porto Rico and Added to Regular Program of "Play Day" for the Troops.

New York, Nov. 7.—Football, not soccer, but the modern intercollegiate type, has been started in Porto Rico and the soldiers are taking to it like ducks to water, despite heat and sandy playing field that elsewhere would be considered too heavy for fast team work.

The first battalion of the 374th regiment started the football craze late in September by challenging the rest of the regiment. Neither side scored but two broken noses were reported among the casualties. This was the first blood drawn by the warriors and it added such zest to the life of the camp that the 374th regiment has taken up the game.

As a result of the interest in the football games the athletic director has added to the sport to the regular program of "play day" events for the troops. This is probably the first appearance of football in the tropics.

With 53 stars in its service flag, the Southern association has made a bid for honors among the minor baseball leagues. Last season there were only 120 players on the roster of the eight Southern association clubs and almost half that number are now in military service. In addition several have enrolled for welfare work or service in other non-combatant branches of the nation's forces overseas.

According to latest available figures Chattanooga tops the list of clubs with 11 of its 15 players either in the army or navy. Mobile has nine stars in its flag, Memphis eight, Birmingham seven, Little Rock six and Nashville, New Orleans and Atlanta four each.

Much has been written regarding the wonderful work of the American engineers in France both at the bases of the United States army and along the many connecting lines which hook up the front lines with the sources of supply. There is, however, another side to their activity which is just as remarkable and praiseworthy, especially since it is gratuitous and done after ordinary working hours.

It is the preparing of fields or enclosures for soldier athletes and without which it would be impossible to play or hold many of the games and contests.

Stories of the helpful work of the engineers in this direction are constantly being sent back across the seas along the following lines. Recently a Y. M. C. A. athletic director with an engineer regiment in the center of France felt discouraged regarding the outlook for sports.

There was no field fit for baseball, football or even basketball. To relieve his mind he told his trouble to a sergeant. "If it's a baseball field you want," quoth the sergeant, "we'll have it."

A rocky, uneven and generally desolate pasture was selected as the only possible place upon which a ball park could be built. The physical director thought that, possibly, after a year's work, something might be made of it.

That was before he knew the engineers well. It took just three days to "skin" off the field, level it, roll it and put it in condition for play, even to the building of a fine wire netting backstop and marking out the foul lines with flags. The job was done by the men after they had dug out in a hard day at their regular tasks. Practically the whole regiment assisted at one time or another.

With the baseball field in operation, it was decided to promote boxing. The drawback was that there was no place to stage bouts except the floor of the hut, and the men who wanted to read or write or listen to the music machine wouldn't stand for that. Again the sergeant was consulted. In three days he had put up, near the hut, as good a ring as ever staged a championship bout. It has a well constructed platform, ropes arranged in the proper manner, padded floor and a timekeeper's gong. They didn't say where they got the boards and nobody seemed to care because the officers who might have been fussy were too busy crowding into ringside seats for the opening performance. There are but two isolated incidents of what the engineers do when their help is needed to keep the sport spirit alive.

MUCH OPIUM SMUGGLED
From Eastern Siberia into Harbin, the Opportunities Are So Alluring.

Vladivostok, Nov. 6.—Opium smuggling from eastern Siberia into Harbin offers such alluring rewards that scarcely an opportunity is overlooked by train porters and conductors. Across the Manchurian frontier the hillsides are ablaze with poppy fields. The prepared drug will bring triple its purchase price if safely delivered in the Manchurian town.

A young American woman, traveling in a private car from Vladivostok recently unearthed a mysterious package in her compartment. The car porter, seeing it in her hands, attempted to snatch it. Being a young woman of spirit, she grasped it, whereupon the porter fell upon his knees and begged for mercy. With a little persuasion he produced from beneath the young woman's berth a dozen more similar packages. They aggregated several pounds of opium.

Other Americans on board were summoned and it was decided to turn over the opium and the porter to the first customs officer encountered. This was done in the station at Harbin. The customs officer confiscated the drug, thereby earning a reward of several hundred rubles, but declared he had no authority to arrest the smuggler and the porter went his way.

CONVICT GETS A NEW TRIAL

Robert Warm, Ex-Soldier, Was Found Guilty of Murdering Jennie Hemingway

JURYMAN TALKED BEFORE THE TRIAL

Other Decisions Rendered at Opening of Court Term in Montpelier

Robert Warm, who is now in Vermont state prison, will have another trial on the charge of murder, according to the decision handed down by the Vermont supreme court Wednesday afternoon, the opinion being among three read during the afternoon at the beginning of the November session. Warm was found guilty a year ago in Franklin county court on the charge of murdering Jennie Hemingway in St. Albans.

The case came to supreme court upon a petition for a new trial upon the grounds of newly discovered evidence, as well as the claim that one of the juryman, Frank Martin, had made a wager in Montgomery preceding the trial, that Warm would be found guilty of the offense. He was later on the jury that convicted Warm and, according to the evidence in the affidavit, the juryman discussed the case after his return to Montgomery.

Justice Haselton, who read the opinion, stated that the court did not consider the material for a new trial because there was enough in the circumstances surrounding the juryman's statement to make necessary a new trial. A matter of great public policy was involved in this part of the case and the court had found that Warm is entitled to a new trial. This will give a chance for the defense to present the evidence, that it believes it has, which will acquit Warm of the charge. He was a soldier at Fort Ethan Allen at the time he was arrested.

Chief Justice Watson read the first opinion, which was one of the longest read in this court in a long time. It was in the case of H. E. Powers and H. S. Peck, executors of the estate of Alder Judvine et al. vs. the trustees of the Caledonia county grammar school, and was over timber which it had been claimed had been removed. The case came to court in 1912 and since that time several deaths have occurred, including Mr. Powers and George T. Howard. G. M. Powers and Cora Powers and Etta Howard came into the case. The case involves a similar case in which the plaintiff in this was the defendant in the other.

In this decision it was stated that when ex-Chief Justice Munson wrote the first opinion during the time he was on the bench, a majority of the court failed to agree with him, but that another has been written in which a majority of the court, as well as ex-Judge Munson, agreed. The dissenting justice was Judge Haselton, who expressed an opinion that the case should have been decided in favor of the plaintiff, who now will have to pay $2,500 and interest since 1897. Decree reversed and cause remanded. Watson, Justice.

In Orleans county the case of H. T. Seaver et al. vs. Lillian Lang and trustee was decided. This is a suit in which a verdict was ordered for the plaintiff to recover $20,242.82, the case coming to supreme court on the exceptions of the defendant. It involves the estate of Lang, the horseman, mortgages on the property, the death of Lang and his wife. The opinion was, judgment reversed and cause remanded; Powers, Justice.

Extra Made.
During the calling of the docket several entries were made in which many cases were disposed of. The Bennington county cases will be submitted on briefs. In the Rutland county cases, Stuart vs. Plumley will be continued because of illness of an attorney and all others are set for hearing, including the disbarment proceedings against E. H. O'Brien.

In Chittenden county the cases were settled and discontinued: May vs. Pope; White vs. White; J. P. Clark's administrator vs. Estate of E. W. Peck. The remainder were continued excepting Prior vs. Riggs, in which a motion for an affirmed judgment will be argued and a couple presented in briefs.

In Franklin county the case of Baker vs. the Burlington Traction company is continued, all others being for hearing.

GERMAN SUBMARINE FIRED ON LIFEBOAT
Which Was Taking Sailors Off Greek Vessel, Which Had Been Torpedoed.

Athens, Nov. 7.—A German submarine, after having torpedoed a Greek sailing ship, is said to have fired on the crew when they tried to escape from the sinking vessel, according to an official telegram received here from Greece. The lifeboat has been examined and found to be shattered by projectiles from the submarine's guns. This incident is interesting in view of German denials of such actions.

HEADQUARTERS BUSY
In the United War Work Campaign at White River Junction.

White River Junction, Nov. 7.—A fortnight ago if a stranger had asked the policeman on the corner to direct him to the busiest spot in town there are any number of areas of business and industrial activity to which the officer's pudgy hand might have pointed. To-day if the same question were asked, the policeman's directions would inevitably take the stranger straight to the Barnes building, where the headquarters of the Vermont United War Work campaign is located. Here center all of the efforts which hundreds of volunteer workers throughout the state are making that Vermont may be more than 100 per cent patriotic in its subscriptions to the National Army, the Y. M. C. A., the Salvation Army, the Y. W. C. A., the Jewish Welfare board, the Y. W. C. A., the War Camp Community service and the American Library association. Those who give to the end that Vermont's quota may be oversubscribed see only the surface indications of the campaign preparations, but in the headquarters offices here one may discern the heart of the whole enterprise.

Archibald C. Hurd is the state director and his immediate assistants include five stenographers. Two extra office rooms have been arranged to accommodate the workers and in this arrangement loyal citizens have generously donated the use of typewriters and furniture. White River Junction was selected as state campaign headquarters because of its central location and its excellent train facilities; also and this is not the least of the reasons—because State Director Hurd, whose work in normal times is centered here, has an acquaintance that touches every town in the state and because he is thoroughly familiar with purely local conditions in every town and county.

Closely associated with him is the executive secretary of the victory boys' division of the campaign, Charles E. Garman, who is giving his undivided attention to the work among the young Vermonters. Mr. Garman is one of America's most successful workers in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. The Maiden Y. M. C. A. loaned his services to Vermont for the duration of the campaign. Another worker stationed here for the duration of the campaign is Miss Mabel L. Southwick of Burlington, well known as a Y. W. C. A. worker, who is at the head of the victory girls' division. Every day campaign chairmen, sub-chairmen, committeemen, town and county workers are here for the conferences. There will be no slackening of effort at headquarters and until the campaign ends Nov. 15 the offices in the Barnes building will continue to be the busiest spot in town.

APPROPRIATES $24,000.
Brattleboro War Chest Association Is Ready for Next Week's Drive.

Brattleboro, Nov. 7.—The disbursing committee of the Brattleboro War Chest association at a recent meeting appropriated $24,000 as the town's contribution to the coming united war work drive. This is $4,000 in excess of the town's quota, which has been fixed at $20,000.

In addition to the united war work contribution, the war chest committee also voted $1,000 each to the Armenian and Belgian relief fund.

UNSHAKEN TESTIMONY

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Barre. No Barre resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills, can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Mrs. N. M. Nelson, 20 Merchant street, Barre, says: "A severe attack of grip left my kidneys in a weakened condition. The slightest housework tired me, and after I was on my feet for any great time, sharp pains across my back compelled me to stop and rest. Other complications came on, and my kidneys began to act unnaturally. I paid out over a hundred dollars seeking relief, but got none. I became discouraged until someone advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They stopped the trouble in a short time and rid me of the dangerous attack." (Statement given November 10, 1905.)

OVER SIX YEARS LATER, Mrs. Nelson said: "I still use Doan's now and then find them as excellent as when I first recommended them."

while in Orleans county all cases were continued excepting State vs. Bedell, et al., burglary.

In Essex county all cases were continued excepting Stern Bros. vs. Currier, which is for hearing, and Lapointe vs. Lapointe, in which judgment was affirmed. The defendant in the case of the cases is the Grand Trunk Railway company, whose attorney stated that these five cases were continued.

The only case for trial in Caledonia county is Lane vs. Bean. A motion for an affirmed judgment was entered in the case of McAleer vs. McClellan. The rest of the cases are continued.

In Orange county the case of State vs. F. J. Sanborn, practicing veterinary surgery without a license, is continued, as are the others, excepting Salisbury Lumber Co. vs. Eureka Lumber Co., which may be heard.

In Bacon county the case of Bacon vs. Dunsmuir in Windham county has been discontinued and the New England Box Co. vs. Tibbetts continued.

The decree was affirmed in C. A. Cleveland vs. Abbie Cleveland in Windsor county and a motion for an affirmed judgment will be argued in Matthew Hannah vs. John Hannah, while Jarvis vs. Gillette is continued, and the others left for hearing.

Most of the Washington county cases are for hearing, including two mandamus proceedings in which Fred Sanborn seeks to have the court order the board of veterinary registration grant him a license and Mrs. Anna Mack L'Honnore vs. the Vermont board of medical registration, who seeks to have the court order the board to give her a license to practice.

BLOND ESKIMOS IN WHITE ARCTIC

They Are Completely Out of Contact with Everything and So Have None of Our Improvements and None of Our Evils.

Seattle, Nov. 6.—"Sure they're 'blond Eskimos.' They are aborigines living up in the white Arctic on Victoria land in their primeval state absolutely untouched by the outside world's civilization. They are completely out of contact with everything and, consequently have none of our improvements and none of our evils."

W. J. Bower, known along the Arctic coast as "Levi Bower," one of the very few men who have gone from the outside into the far northern almost fabled land of the "blond Eskimos," thus described them when he was here recently.

"And I don't think it was Stefansson who first found them," Bower asserted. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, returned Canadian Arctic explorer, who has been credited with discovering the strange tribe, agrees with Bower that he did not find them first. He does, however, claim that he made the first study of the tribe and brought back to the outside world the first report of its existence.

According to Stefansson and Bower, a Captain Klinkenberg, master of the whaling schooner Olga, in 1905 pushed northwest to Victoria, where he found the blond tribe. On his return to the whaling base at Herschel Island, an Arctic ocean point, he told of his findings. Stefansson, then at Herschel, heard Klinkenberg's story and immediately went to Victoria, where he made a study of the natives.

Bower claimed the "blond Eskimos" are really blond. Stefansson does not go that far, but says they have light gray almost blue eyes, and a few have light hair and eyebrows. Bower pointed out that the "blond" natives have round light eyes, while the other Eskimos of the far north have the slant eyes of Asiatics.

"It looks as if the 'blond Eskimo' came from early Greenlanders, or Scandinavian stock of some kind," Bower said. "I know they are not half white and half Eskimo because the half breed Eskimos have black eyes and black hair. These white ones have light eyes and light skin and hair. The old men of the tribe have the same white features as the young."

"Bows and arrows are used by them, they know nothing about tobacco and liquor, they make their fires with a sort of flint, they dress in skins, they spear their reindeer and club their fish, they won't eat outsider's food and they speak a language similar to that of the Eskimos."

"They are hospitable, friendly and square, too square, I think. If you give them anything they are not satisfied until they give you something in return. I gave one woman an empty baking powder tin and she immediately brought a big skin."

"We left a gun with them. Instead of using it to kill meat, the men seemed to think it was a plaything for when I light skin and hair. The old men of the tribe have the same white features as the young."

When they run out of ammunition they probably will turn the gun around and get some real use out of it as a club."

Bower said he thought there were over 250 "blond Eskimos" on Victoria land. It is not very probable that they will be molested much by the outside world, for Victoria land is far off the usual run of traders and whalers go into the Arctic no longer.

Bower has served on whaling vessels in many parts of the north, and until his recent return to the states, had not been out of the Arctic for five years. On Stefansson's last trip he was steward on the schooner Polar Bear, which Stefansson used for a time. Stefansson took Bower into the "blond Eskimo" country.

RED CROSS EMBLEM MISUSED.

Actions of Germans Bringing Out Bitter Comment by Americans.

With the American Army in France, Nov. 7.—Misuse of the Red Cross emblem by the German army is bringing bitter comment from American officers in position to know what is being done. A lieutenant in the medical corps and an infantry officer assert that "all the stories told about German army's devilish and inhuman tactics are true."

Taught to respect the Red Cross flag, American troops were led into many an ambush by boche trickery in the display of this insignia. And what has incensed the Americans the most is the fact that the Germans refused to recognize the Red Cross emblem at any time.

"Before going to the front I was inclined to doubt some of the stories being circulated about the Germans," said the medical officer, "but after one month in the front lines I can believe anything that is said against them. They are so guilty of inhuman and barbarous acts themselves that they refuse to respect the use of the Red Cross by the allies. Their use of the Red Cross insignia is one of the biggest crimes they ought to be made to answer for after the war."

One of the tricks used by the boche was to plant a Red Cross flag in the tower of a church of a village in the path of the advancing Americans. Respecting it, the infantry would not call for any concentration of artillery fire on these buildings.

The American troops upon taking one particular village advanced upon a church from which was displayed a Red Cross flag, without suspecting any trick. When they were within short range, a murderous machine gun fire was poured into their ranks from the windows and towers of the church. When the Americans finally gained the interior, they found six machine guns, manned by a platoon of sturdy boches—not a sign of any hospital or dressing station. Needless to say, no prisoners were taken.

SHARKS FOLLOW SUBMARINES.

Sea Gulls Also Come in Search of Food from Wreckage.

On Board an American Destroyer in French Waters, Nov. 6 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Sharks and sea gulls, the scavengers of the sea, have learned to follow in the wake of the submarines and wait for the food likely to come from the wreckage of merchant vessels destroyed by the German sea wolves.

This fact has been observed by the commanders of American destroyers and is used as a clue to hunt down the Hun at sea.

The presence of schools of sharks and flocks of sea gulls puts the men of the American destroyers on the tip-toe of expectation when they are hunting for a periscope in the path of American transports. One commander returning to port the other day said: "We saw a good many sharks and flocks of sea gulls and these, you know, are a pretty good sign of submarines."

"After several years of sinkings by submarines, the sharks and sea fowl have formed the habit of following in the wake of submarines, knowing that food is likely to come from the wreckage. Whether it is cargo thrown overboard from the freighter or wreckage thrown up from the torpedo explosion makes no difference, the appearance of sharks and birds usually means that there are submarines around."
